OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS

Out where the handclasp's a little stronger,
Out where the smile dwells a little longer,

That's where the West begins;
Out where the sun is a little brighter,
Where the snows that fall are a trifle
whiter,

Where the bonds of home are a wee bit
tighter,
That's where the West begins.

Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,
Out where friendship's a little truer,

That's where the West begins;
Out where a fresher breeze is blowing,
Where there's laughter in every

streamlet flowing,
Where there's more of reaping and less of sowing,

That's where the West begins.

Out where the world is in the making,
Where fewer hearts with despair are aching,

That's where the West begins;
Where there's more of singing and less of sighing,

Where there's more of giving and less
of buying,

And a man makes friends without half trying,

That's where the West begins:
ARTHUR CHAPMAN.

Hundreds of stone formations within the Garden assume as many varieties of eccentric sculpture. WHITE HOUSE, Washington. The White House has been the home of the Presidents from the time of John Adams to the present. Washington selected the site, laid the corner-stone in 1792, and with his wife inspected the finished building in 1799. The building is of Virginia freestone. After the house had been fired by British troops in 1814, and only the walls were left standing, the restored exterior was painted white to obliterate marks of the fire

Legend of the Dogwood in FLORIDA

AN old and beautiful legend has it that, at the time of the Crucifixion, the dogwood was comparable in size to the oak tree and other monarchs of the forest. Because of its firmness and strength it was selected as the timber for the cross, but to be put to such a cruel use greatly distressed the tree. Sensing this, the Crucified Jesus in his gentle pity for the sorrow and suffering of all said to it: "Because of your sorrow and pity for My sufferings never again will the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used as a gibbet. Henceforth it will be slender, bent and twisted and its blossoms will be in the form of a cross—two long and two short petals. In the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nailprints—brown with rust and stained with red—and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns, and all who see this will remember."

Lake Coeur d'Alene received its name from "Heart of an Awl," an old tradition persists, because of the shrewd and hard dealings of early settlers. St. Joe River, which empties into the lake, is claimed to be the highest navigable river in the world. Excursion boats ply along its famous "shadowy" stretches as far as St. Maries. "White water" further upriver is famous for its trout fishing.

Snake River, before reclamation subdued it, poured its flood waters over cascade after cascade, one of the most interesting being the Twin Falls. Located about two miles above Shoshone Falls, and six miles north of the city of Twin Falls. Kansas Oil Fields

"DOWN AMONG THE OILFIELDS"

We're down among the oil fields
Where you never have the blues
Where the bandits steal the jitneys
And the Marshals steal the booze.
Where the buildings horn the skyline
Where the populace is boost
Where they shoot men just for pastime
Where the chickens never roost.
Where the stickup men are wary
And the bullets fall like hail;
Where each pocket has a pistol
And each pistol's good for jail;
Where they always hang the jury
Where they never hang a man
If you call a man a liar, you Get home the best you can.
Where you get up in the morning
In a world of snow and sleet

And you come home in the evening
Suffocating in the heat.
Where the jitneys whiz about you
And the street cars barely creep
Where the burglars pick your pockets
While you "lay me down to sleep"
Where the bulldogs all have rabies
And the rabbits they have fleas.
Where the big girls like the wee ones
Wear their dresses to the knees.
Where you whist out in the morning
Just to give your health a chance Say "Howdy" to some fellow who Shoots big holes in your pants.
Where the wise owls are afraid to hoot
And bird's don't dare to sing
For it's hell down here in Oil Land
Where they all shoot on the wing.

From as romantic a place as you ever ate in - drank in - wrote home about. It's been here a long time, since away back, and the "TWO SISTERS" have long been gone - but the famous "COURT" remains more charming and beautiful than ever. One of the nicest things about the place is - "There's always a table especially for You."

This card shows the view from the Skyline Drive of the main business section, the Lift Bridge and Canal, and Minnesota Point which shuts off Lake Superior from the Harbor. The Skyline Drive extends along the brow of hills which Duluth is built upon, for 25 miles, from the eastern to the westernmost part of the city, and it overlooks the city and lake and commands a beautiful panorama of parks, buildings, industries, harbor operations, and lake, said to be the finest and most picturesque in America. Parkway extensions are Mission Creek, Bardon's Peak, Snively Boulevards, and Jay Cooke Parkway.

The Old Capitol of Mississippi is the most treasured relic of the commonwealth. It was built in 1839-40, when Jackson was but a country town. Here, just prior to the Civil War, the Ordinance of Secession was passed by the State Legislature, and at the time, "The Bonnie Blue Flag" was sung for the first time. For sixty years it was the seat of the state government and here many famous men spoke and visitors came, in the days of reconstruction and "Black and Tan" Legislatures held sessions. The beloved Jefferson Davis spoke here for the first time. Since the building of the new State Capitol, the Old Capitol has been restored and beautified and is now used as a state office building. It stands at the corner of Capitol Street, a landmark to citizens and visitors.

A massive trestle, over which the cog-wheel engine pushes the coach up the steep side of Mt. Washington (a distance of three miles,) which has an average grade of 1300 feet and a maximum grade of 1980 feet to the mile. At this point the tree line ends and the Sub-Alpine vegetation begins. The air grows colder and colder as we ascend and a marvelous vista spreads before us as we reach the summit

The contour of Niagara Falls is constantly changing from the effects of frost, erosion and undermining of the rocks by falling water. Because of these workings of nature, the American Falls has been changed in the past few years from almost a straight front to the ragged crest line shown in this picture.

SPANGLER'S SPRING. This spring at the foot of Culp's Hill, furnished water for the wounded of both armies, when at the close of hostilities on the night of the second day's battle, both the Blue and the Grey sought here, together, a draught for their disabled comrades. A neat structure of granite now incloses the spring and all visitors to the field stop to drink from its historic waters.

MUD AND LOG CABIN, PENN AVENUE,
ONE OF THE CITY'S FIRST HOMES,
PITTSBURGH, PA.

This old historic building is one of Pittsburgh's first homes. It is located practically in the heart of East Liberty business district, flanked by the more modern type of buildings. Although built in the early part of the nineteenth century, it is in a wonderful state of preservation. The "Mud and Log Cabin," as it is known, gives an idea of what the pioneer settlers homes were like in those days. The house is unoccupied at present. It is now the property of Miss Margaret Forsythe, having been handed down through several generations.

Topography of the country around Chattanooga has necessitated some feats of engineering that were decidedly unusual in appearance. The "W" approaching summit of Walden's Ridge is one of the most unique. This road leads to a region famous for health giving properties.

STATE CAPITOL, NASHVILLE, TENN.

The grounds upon which the Capitol stands were purchased by the city of Nashville from Geo. W. Campbell for $30,000 and presented to the State December, 1843, and are perhaps the most beautiful site for a capitol building in the world, being in the center of the city and 197 feet above the level of the Cumberland River. Grading the grounds was begun January 1, 1844; the cornerstone was laid July 4, 1845; the building was completed March 19, 1859.

The Capitol is entirely of Tennessee material, and is fireproof. The building is a parallelogram, 112x239 ft.; extreme height 206 ft. 7 in. Total cost of building and grounds $1,500,000.

Wm. Strickland was architect, and is entombed in the wall of the northern portico.

President James K. Polk and wife are buried in the grounds.

A fine bronze statue of General Jackson adorns the grounds on east side of Capitol.

CASTLE VALLEY REGION

Near Moab, Utah

Giant buttes resembling feudal castles stand guard along the Colorado River in Castle Valley in Southeastern Utah. Green trees, underbrush and pasture along the river contrast sharply with the rich browns, pinks, and orange of the towering formations. The area is reached on a scenic and thrilling road which leaves U. S. 160 near Moab, Utah and parallels the Colorado River for some 16 miles.

FISHER TOWER REGION

On the Colorado River, Utah

Here is a remarkable group of pinnacles and spires located along the Colorado River, northeast of Moab, Utah. From a distance, these red sandstone formations, eroded by wind and weather, suggest the skyline of Manhattan. Some have dominant, unbroken verticle lines of the modern skyscrapers, while others resemble Gothic Cathedrals. They are reached by a very scenic state road from Moab.

In 1937 the Utah Legislature accepted the gift to the state by Mrs. Jennie J. Kearns of her home, 603 East South Temple St., to be used as a residence of the Governor. Mrs. Kearns is the widow of former United States Senator Thomas Kearns, who was a successful mine operator at Park City, Utah, and elsewhere in the West.

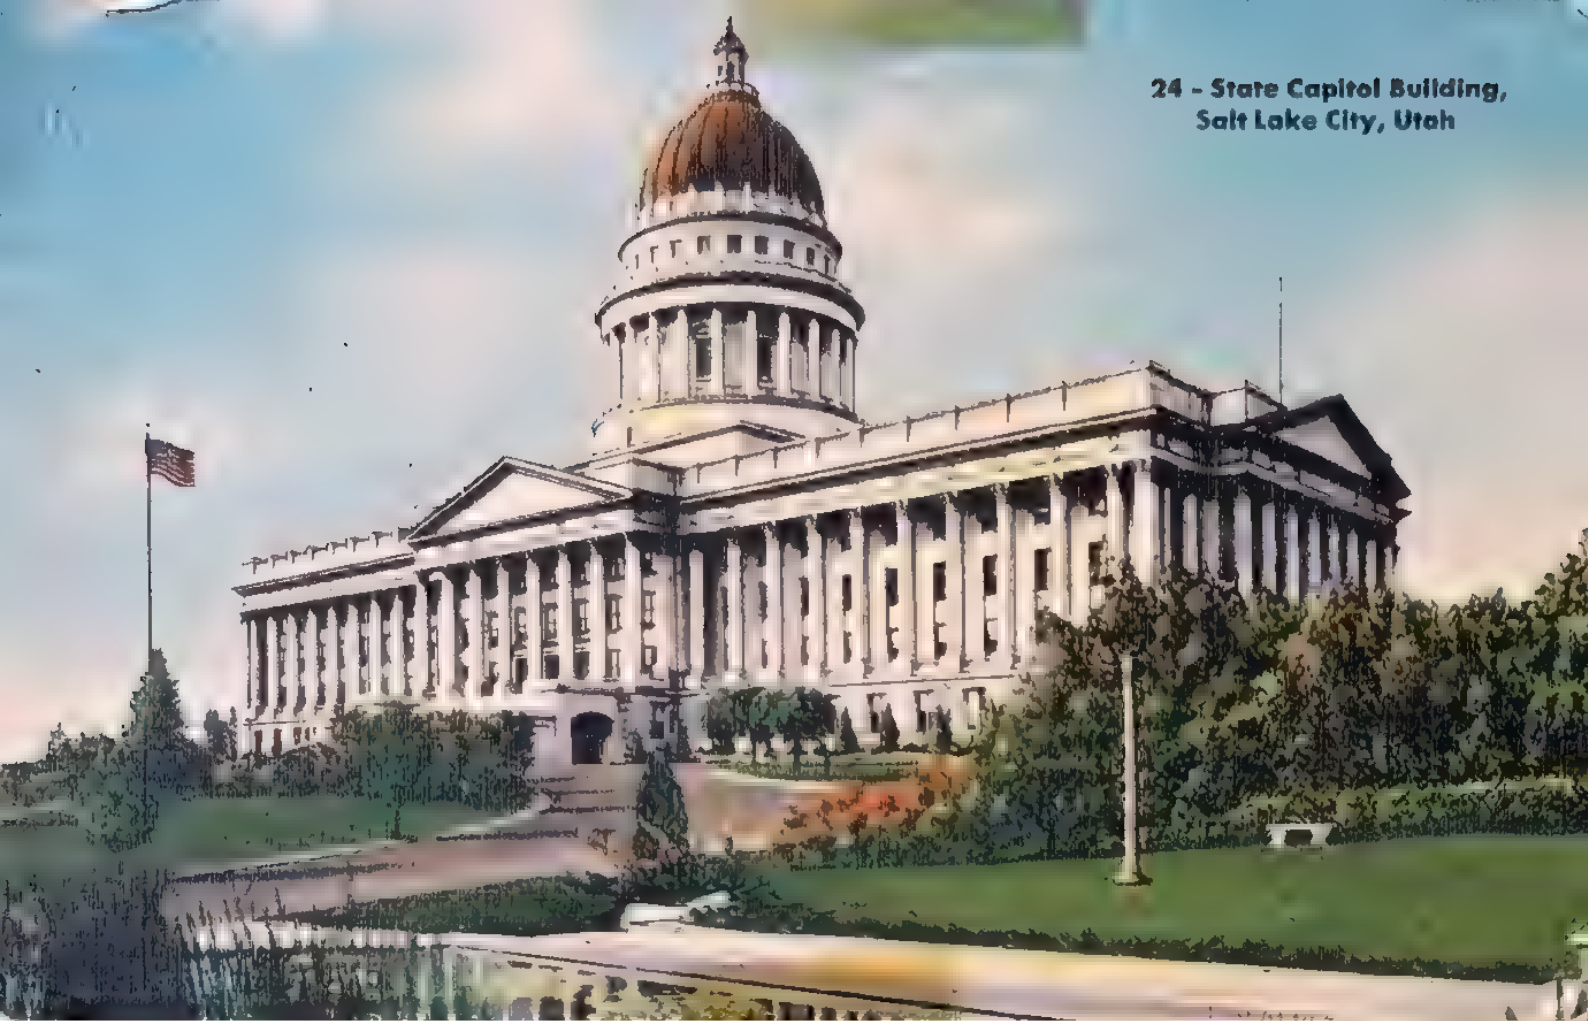

The residence, completed 1900, has a foundation of Utah granite obtained in the mountains near Salt Lake City. The walls of the structure are of oolite, from Sanpete County, Utah.

FALLING WATERS, BERKELEY COUNTY, W. VA. This charming cascade is artificial, being formed by the waters of several springs which fall over an old 24-foot mill dam. The stream, from source to mouth, is less than 400 feet long, and empties into the Potomac River just a few feet below this point. The Williamsport-Martinsburg Turnpike bridge is directly over the dam so that one must walk to the side of the highway to see the falls. The old water wheel is a reminder of the second gristmill on the site, the first one being operated in the days when the product of the mill was boated down the Potomac to market.

Martha Washington, by Gilbert Stuart, noted portrait painter of the 18th century. Stuart painted three now famous portraits of the "Father of his Country." The first two were not to his satisfaction. His third and last opportunity came when Washington personally commissioned him in 1796 to paint Mrs. Washington and himself. This third picture satisfied Stuart to such an extent that he hated to part with it, and he purposely left the background unfinished so that he could make copies and sell them before presenting the original. Washington, somewhat impatient, informed Stuart that he would accept a copy rather than wait so long for the original. So the original treasure remained with Stuart, and in 1831 was sold by his widow for $1,500.00 to the Washington Association of Boston, which association presented it to the Boston Athenaeum where it has been housed ever since.

LONG TIME BETWEEN LETTERS, BUT—

Old friend, I've often thought of you,
 And silence meant no slight;
 For though my hand is negligent,
 My heart is still all right.

Dear dadie! just a few lines for old time sake -
 How I should like to sit down and have a good long chat with you. Write me a letter dadie and let me hear you're making it every day. I am so ever - working as usual. I have been here in this one place nearly 5 years.
 expect to stay another. Edith is also working. Even little Helma has this summer - lot of love and found all well, and

and everything running along smooth as if I been canning, though fruit is not plenty so usual people will for cherries. Wish you folk had sent off mail, or sent

SNUG AS A BUG IN A RUG, PUEBLO INDIAN PAPOOSE

34009

SNUG AS A BUG IN A RAG. PUEBLO INDIAN PAPOOSE.

The cradle or carrier of the Pueblo Indian babies is either a board, or rawhide stretched on a wooden frame. Sometimes, they have a frame of wicker, or cloth stretched on a wooden frame, as a hood. The child is bound in this carrier, and altho they appear uncomfortable, they are seldom heard to cry. When the carrier is used as a cradle, it is simply tied to the beams of the roof of the little huts in which the Pueblo Indians live, by long ropes. The cradle can then be swung like a pendulum. The Pueblo Indian is very fond of his children who obey their parents absolutely and uncomplainingly. They are seldom punished or spoken to harshly.

DOWN IN THE VALLEY. I.

There's a picture in my heart that lives for ever,
 'Tis a home with honeysuckles 'round the door,
 By a brook that always murmured love's sweet song,
 In those happy days gone by for evermore.
 At the window I can see my sweetheart waiting,
 She is listening as the evening church bells ring,
 I can see her in the valley where we parted,
 In the valley where the blue birds sing.

REWARD CARD

T. PRESSER CO., PHILA

October 22, 1811.

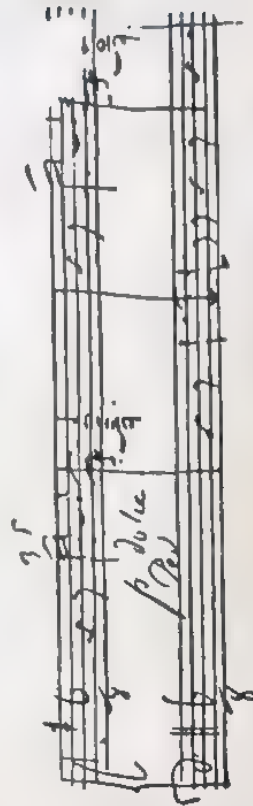

Died July 31, 1886.

Franz Liszt.

"THE KING OF PIANO VIRTUOSI." Born at Raiding, Hungary; his father was steward to Prince Esterhazy and devoted to music. He composed little tunes before he could spell. At nine he gave his first concert with such success that a number of people raised money for his instruction for six years. Czerny, who was his teacher, made him work hard. In 1822 he was brought out in a concert. He then played in concerts all over Europe, and in 1827 settled in Paris.

He wanted to become a priest, but Paganini's playing inspired him to begin practicing again, and he became the greatest pianist of his time. After 1847 he gave the proceeds of his concerts to charity. In 1848 he accepted the post of opera conductor at Weimar. He taught hundreds of pupils there. He died at Bayreuth.

He was the great champion of Richard Wagner and his friend of struggling musicians. He invented many new effects in piano playing. His compositions include Symphonic Poems, Hungarian Rhapsodies, many piano pieces and songs.

The Legend of the DOGWOOD

THERE is a legend, that at the time of the Crucifixion the dogwood had been the size of the oak and other forest trees. So firm and strong was the tree that it was chosen as the timber for the cross. To be used thus for such a cruel purpose greatly distressed the tree, and Jesus, nailed upon it, sensed this, and in His gentle pity for all sorrow and suffering said to it:

"Because of your regret and pity for My suffering, never again shall the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used as a cross. Henceforth it shall be slender and bent and twisted and its blossoms shall be in the form of a cross. . . . two long and two short petals. And in the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nail prints, brown with rust and stained with red, and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns, and all who see it will remember."

Sweet Honeysuckle:

Will you be my clinging vine? A man who is hungry for love is apt to bite off more than he can chew. I'm a big business man of large parts and deep penetration, but chisseling and cheating are my specialty. I never break the 11th commandment (getting caught), do you? When I buy a suit I always get two pair of pants. A smart girl does likewise before she starts on a new romance. I prefer slender willowy figures and don't like the feel of corsets. I like mountain music—What's your weakness? Cordially,

I wish I was a rock, a-settin' on a hill, a doin' nothin' all day long, but jest a-settin' still. I wouldn't eat, I wouldn't sleep, I wouldn't even wash,
I'd jest set still a thousand years,
and rest myself, be-gosh,

To My Dear Love

The golden summer may be here and gild each passing day;

But oh! 'tis winter in my heart, if thou art far away;

And tho' the summer's joys be flown, and winter days abide,

'Tis summer in my heart

indeed if thou art at my side

Sayings of Solomon

Love is a fire, but you have to keep putting fresh coals on it to keep it going. If you don't somebody else will.

Love may "knock at the door" of a woman's heart, but when he wants to enter a man's he has to use a dark lantern and a jimmy.

When a man marries nowadays it is not a proof of his love, but just of his lack of will power.
